THE 4TH OF JULY*Celebration Will be the Greatest Held Here in Years.*BUSY PROGRAM ALL DAY LONG*Fireworks Display at Night Promises to be Best Ever Given; Two Ball

Untown; What Will be Doing.

Fourth of July will be celebrated in Connellsville tomorrow as it has not been observed in years. A program of interesting features, including races, baseball games and athletic sports prepared by the business men's committee will begin early and continue throughout the day.

The celebration will conclude with the fireworks display at 9:30 o'clock. This promises to be one of the most beautiful ever set off in Connellsville. All the special set pieces are being constructed on Fayette field by mechanics of the American Fireworks Company of Dunbar. Nearly every place is something new and patterned from designs that attracted wide attention at the Roman festival in Italy last summer.

Special precautions will be taken at the park to prevent accidents. Special officers and members of the police force will be on hand to keep the crowd from getting into the danger zone.

Attractions that will help to swell the crowd will be two baseball games at Fayette field between the Connellville and the Untown Independents. The first game will be played at 10 A. M. and the second at 3:30. Manager McComick and his county sent accreditation to take the measure of McComick's outfit as well as the little to the undisputed championship. Fredrickson has been to the park and has secured some extra talent for the occasion and declares that he is prepared to take the measure of McComick's outfit as well as the little to the undisputed championship. VETERANS RETURN; TELL OF
HARDSHIPS ON BATTLEFIELD

The Men's Fall to Appeal, Tents
Proved Hot and Heat Intense,
So They Moved Home.

Members of the Connellsville delegation to the semi-centennial celebration at Gettysburg are returning home one by one, disappointed over the arrangements provided for their accommodation on the battlefield. More than a dozen are home now, and it is expected that the majority of those still on the field will start on the return trip today. The latest to arrive in town are Alex Tarr, William H. Shaw, Smith Dawson and A. T. Boyer. When the Connellsville delegation arrived on the field they disembarked from the train more than half a mile from their reservation. After tramping to the tents, they entered the sun-baked shelters to find in the torrid atmosphere that diminished little during the night.

First move for them Tuesday morning was anything but a pleasure. The veterans marched from the mess tents to the cook stoves with their tin cups and granite plates in hand. There this food was dished out in a mess.

The Connellsville delegation has been fortunate in view of the fact that only one of its members has been a victim of the heat prostration. Ulrich D. Snyder was discovered in the shade of the Gettysburg courthouse by several of his companions. Mr. Snyder was taken to a field hospital in an ambulance, where at last reports he was recovering nicely. It is expected that he will be able to return home with the remainder of the delegation.

One of the things that impressed Connellsville men most was the efficient method employed by members of the State Constabulary in looking after the great crowds. Only 120 of the state police are on the grounds, but they have control of the situation.

School Director Lloyd J. Shaw returned with the party.

VETERANS LEAVING

Strain at Gettysburg Proves Too Much for Most of Them.

UNIONTOWN, July 3.—With at least one-third of the veterans who participated in the semi-centennial celebration at Gettysburg already departed for their homes and one-half of those remaining preparing to leave, there is little enthusiasm manifest today. Everyone is waiting for the departure of the delegation, the visit of President Woodrow Wilson tomorrow. With the arrival of the first southern President to visit the battleground, the southern soldiers will have their best chance to celebrate.

The weather here today is ideal. The rain storm of yesterday settled the clouds of dust and cooled the temperature. Today is Governors' day and executive programs are being carried on the platform in the tent this morning and were introduced during the ceremonies. Governors here are William Sulzer of New York; L. D. Hanna of North Dakota; J. E. Cox of Ohio; Alfred M. Biecher of Minnesota; William H. Mann of Virginia; Francis B. McConover of Wisconsin; Simon E. Biddle of Connecticut; Charles R. Miller of Delaware; Samuel R. Johnston of Indiana; James B. McCreary of Kentucky; William T. Haines of Maine; Adolph B. Burdick of Minnesota; Samuel Parker of New Hampshire; James E. Fielder of New Jersey; and Lieut. Governor Burdick of Idaho.

W. E. Henry, who is said to be a son of Brigadier General Henry of Virginia, is under arrest here today charged with stabbing seven persons in the Gettysburg Hotel last night. Henry denies being implicated in the affair. J. D. Mauchner of Harrisburg, was severely injured by one of the knife thrusts.

A veteran, George E. Walls of Lewisburg, Pa., died this morning following an acute attack of uraemia. He is the eighth old soldier to die during the celebration.

FOUR CHILDREN CRIMINATED.

a Farmhouse.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., July 3.—Five children were cremated and the mother was badly burned this morning when attempting to rescue them from a fire that destroyed the farmhouse of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hays in Middlesex township. The dead are: Howard Hays, 11; Ethel Hays, 7; Mary Hays, 6; Robert Hays, 3; and William Hays, 9 months old.

The father and mother were in the yard milking cows when the fire was discovered. They rushed to the house, but when they arrived, the structure was in flames and they were unable to awaken the sleeping children.

Will From Henry Clay.
UNIONTOWN, July 3.—In the will of Jackson E. Tishue of Henry Clay township, the entire estate of $4,300 is bequeathed to his wife. Conaway. The will is dated March 6, 1913.

WATER COMPANY IS HAVING TROUBLE; MAKING REPAIRS

Supply Will be Cut Off Late Tonight to Make Patch in Feed Line Permanent.

The Connellsville Water Company is having trouble because of a break in the 16-inch main feed line at the pump-house. The break occurred in a joint. Yesterday a temporary patch was made, but it failed to hold and pressure had to be reduced. For this reason many sections of town were without water.

It was stated by the company today that permanent repairs will be made tonight. Boys, Porter & Co. worked all night long on a set of clamps. At 11 o'clock tonight the water pressure will be shut off. The joints will be tightened and the clamps applied in a manner that will prevent the recurrence of the trouble, it is believed. In addition to the annoyance caused domestic consumers yesterday by the shortage of water, the Connellsville Steam Laundry was unable to make a full run.

Superintendent Little stated that every effort is being made by the water company to remedy the difficulty. It will be necessary to have the water off from 11 P. M. until 2 A. M. tonight.

GREAT YEAR FOR DRINKERS

Americans Consuming $1,600,000 Barrels of Beer in 1913.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The American people drank more whiskey and beer, smoked more cigars and cigarettes, and chewed more tobacco during the year 1913 than in any other yearly period of the Nation's history, according to estimates based today on the record-breaking internal revenue receipts for the 12 months ended June 30.

The drinkers of the country consumed the enormous total of 13,900,000 gallons of whiskey and brandy, an increase of 7,500,000 gallons over the previous year and breaking the former high record of the fiscal year 1907 by 7,300,000 gallons. Sixty-four million, five hundred thousand barrels of beer flowed down the throats of lovers of the amber brew, exceeding 1911's record by more than 1,000,000 barrels.

It was removed to funeral director W. H. Parkhill's establishment at Dawson and prepared for burial. Funeral services will be held at 9 o'clock from Church at Dawson. Rev. Father Sullivan will be in charge. Zukovics was 19 years old and with his father, Michael Zukovics, boarded at Reservoir town. The remainder of the family is in the old country.

"Little Giant" Still Third.

The statement of the New York Central lines for May shows that the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie again has taken the place as income producer in the group of 11 railroads, having earned gross $1,885,231.86 and net $823,809.71, the latter item being only $490,999.68 less than the similar figure for the same month of the previous year. The Erie had nearly $200,000 more than that for the Michigan Central.

CANINE KILLINGS
DURING DOG DAYS
WILL BE TABOOED*Animals Will be Confined
and Owners Fined,
Says Burgess.*MUZZLES MUST BE USED NOW

Policemen Not Anxious to Risk Lawsuits by Killing Dogs; Officials are Puzzled Over What to Do if No Fine is Forfeited from Owners.

Dog days are here. From the first of July until the fifteenth of September every dog running at large within the borough limits is required to wear a muzzle. It must be a strong, substantial muzzle, one made of leather and wire.

That the ordinance relating to the muzzling of dogs in hot weather will be enforced, was the assertion of Burgess, J. L. Evans this morning. He stated that unmuzzled dogs will be confined in the basement of city hall for a certain period, at the end of which time they will be disposed of if not called for by the owners.

The dogs will not be shot. Following the shooting of an unmuzzled dog last summer which resulted in a damage suit against a cop, the authorities are not willing to run the risk of a similar experience.

Burgess Evans contends that dogs are taxable property, and cannot be shot. He said the probabilities are that no dogs will be killed this year for violation of the muzzling ordinance. He will decide the fate of the canine offenders when called upon to do so. In the meantime he is not working over the problem.

The borough ordinances under which unmuzzled dogs were shot last year, follows:

"Every dog running at large within the borough limits without a collar of metal, or a leather collar with a metal plate, having the name of owner inscribed on said metal plate, and from the first day of July to the fifteenth day of September in each year running at large without a securely fastened, good, substantial, strong and safe muzzle thereon placed in such a manner as to effectually prevent such a dog from biting, snapping, shall be killed and buried; and the Burgess is hereby authorized to carry this section into effect by the appointing for the purpose as many persons as shall be necessary, and such persons so appointed shall receive for their services the sum of 50 cents for each dog killed and buried in accordance with this section, to be paid by proper warrant out of the borough treasury, on audit of such a dog."

"And any persons who shall obstruct or impede any officer, constable or person appointed as above, in carrying into effect the provisions of this section shall pay a fine of $5 and costs of the prosecution for every such offense."

MAY FILL VACANCIES.

Little Other Important Business Faces
From Council.

Town Council will meet tonight. It is expected that the meeting will be short. Little business of importance for the council is scheduled for tonight and the tardy weather will likely have an effect in discouraging long discussions.

Aside from paying the monthly bills, the most important feature of the session promises to be the election of a successor to C. M. Storer, whose resignation was accepted at last meeting. Council may also be called upon to select a successor for Simon Hays, whose resignation is said to be in the hands of Clerk A. O. Hixler.

EXPRESS MESSENGER'S BODY FOUND BY WEST SIDE YOUTH

Victim of the Deadly Swimming Hole
Comes to Surface; Prepared for Burial.

The body of James F. Cookson, the United States Express Company messenger drowned in the Yough river at Sedon Monday afternoon, was found this morning at 8 o'clock a short distance below the point where he sank. It was first noticed by J. G. Knight of Cumberland, a trainman on a Western Maryland train, and was recovered by William Martray, a West Side youth.

As Knight's train was passing the riffles below the old stone pier, the trainman noticed the body lying close to the bank. Believing that it was that of a woman who had committed suicide, he notified the authorities. In the meantime, young Martray arrived on the scene. His calls brought to the bank one of the Western Maryland watchmen, and between them they looked after the body until the arrival of funeral director J. B. Sims.

Cookson's body was removed to the United States Express Company morgue prepared for removal to the home of the youth's father, J. C. Cookson, at Sedon, Md. It will be taken there this evening at 5:30 o'clock.

The father was in Pittsburgh when the body was found. He went there last night to employ a diver to come here and look for the body of his son. Immediately upon receiving word that it had been recovered, he returned to Connellsville.

The body was badly decomposed. Eighteen sticks of dynamite had been set off in the river in an effort to raise it to the surface, and it was cut.

DISTRIBUTION HALTED

Supreme Court Sets Aside Decision of Judge Umbel in Big Suit.

Special to The Courier.
UNIONTOWN, July 3.—After a hearing of arguments before S. L. Mestrezat, justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, in chambers, the case of Commonwealth ex rel. Trust Company, trustee, the applicant, versus J. M. Reid, Cella M. R. Boys, executor of the estate of R. P. Boys, deceased, et al., appellants, and George R. Scull, administrator of Edward Scull, deceased, the respondent, versus J. M. Reid, Cella M. R. Boys, executor of the estate of R. P. Boys, deceased, et al., appellants, Judge Mestrezat ordered that any distribution be superseded until the final disposition of the appeal by the Supreme Court.

These cases were the outgrowth of a suit brought by Colonel J. M. Reid against E. H. Reid, et al., in regard to the disposal of some valuable coal lands and a railroad in the Unionville, Somerset county, and the amount involved was $250,000, which is in the keeping of the Somerset Trust Company, trustee. The case has gone through the local courts several times on decisions and appeals, and finally Judge Umbel made an order of division, whereby E. H. Reid is given 25-40 of the trust fund and accrued interest, Cella M. R. Boys 3-10, and George Scull 3-10, the court holding that Colonel J. M. Reid has no interest nor claim upon the said trust fund and accrued interest.

The Sculls of Somerset, and the Somerset Trust Company, which has charge of the fund, applied to Judge Umbel for a writ of supersedeas to stop the distribution of the funds until after an appeal, which had been taken, had been decided by the supreme court. Judge Umbel refused the supersedeas. The appellants then came before Judge Mestrezat and petitioned that a supersedeas be granted until the matter could be heard and decided by the supreme court, and Judge Mestrezat handed down an order granting the petition of the appellants.

ICE PLANT WORKS
BEYOND CAPACITY
TO MEET DEMANDS*Community is Consuming
Every Pound and Asking
More.*CONDITIONS HAVE NO PRECEDENT

All Customers Have Allotments Reduced in Order That Few Will be Required to Go Without Ice at All Free Storage of Perishable Food.

Although working beyond the estimated capacity of the plant, the Yough Crystal Ice & Storage Company is as yet unable to cope with the unprecedented demand for ice. More ice is being consumed in Connellsville than ever known before. Although working night and day, the local plant has been unable to keep pace with consumption. Efforts to buy ice elsewhere have proved to be no avail. There seems to be a general shortage throughout Western Pennsylvania. Brokers and ice plants invariably reply to all requests of the local company that they are not able to meet the demand of their own customers.

The plant on the West Side is overworked. Two tons were capacity to deliver during every 24 hours, but with 27 tons the demand cannot be met. Customers who usually buy 150 pounds are able to obtain only 20 today.

The hot weather has increased the calls for ice to such an extent that the company has taken extreme measures, to accommodate their customers. Notice was sent to all merchants this morning that the company will store perishable goods free of charge until the ice shortage is relieved. It is expected that the shortage will be relieved before it could be used.

The work of making ice was hindered somewhat yesterday by the water shortage. While the water was off for three hours in the afternoon, the company was obliged to pump from the river. This is not a desirable method, and it is expected that the shortage will be relieved before it could be used.

Employees at the ice plant are working night and day in an effort to continue manufacture at capacity. Work is in progress 24 hours each day, and ice is being delivered eight hours a day. It is expected that the shortage will be relieved before it could be used.

One of the largest sufferers on account of the ice famine is the Union Supply Company. That firm's supply has been cut down to one-half. Its sufferers are customers in surrounding towns. The company has ceased to supply

EFFECTIVE BLOUSE.

The blouse shown in the drawing is of white batiste with pipings and embroidery of modonno blue batiste. A cluster of fine tucks on each shoulder contributes sufficient fullness. The collar and cuffs are piped with the blue and embroidered in the same color to simulate tiny buttons and buttonholes. The left edge of the center pleat is finished by a batiste ruffle. The sleeve boasts a little fullness both at shoulder and cuff into which it is tucked. A line of odd little embroidered motifs trims each side of the front.

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries twenty-four per cent., nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

Do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infant deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quality, they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse, but you must see that it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Castoria causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

HARD TO BELIEVE

But Figures Compiled by the U. S. Government Prove It.

It is an amazing fact, shown by government statistics, that 97 men out of every 100 who reach the age of 65 years are partly or wholly dependent on relatives or the state for support. This is certainly something for men to think about. Do you wish to be dependent when you are 65? If not, there is just one way to avoid it—save something now while you are earning money to provide for the time when you will earn nothing. A savings bank with a good bank, added to regularly, will save you much humiliation and worry when you are an old man. The First National of Connellsville is strong and reliable and pays 4% on savings. One dollar opens an account—Adv.

LIGHT—HEAT—POWER

The West Penn Electric Co.

AS a $3,000,000 Power Plant at YOUR disposal, Day and Night. It will soon be supplemented by a mammoth hydro-electric station, one of the largest in the East. The West Penn can supply your need INSTANTLY. Electric energy is here for YOUR use for any purpose, from 1 candlepower to 10,000 horsepower, according to YOUR need. And at

Prices LOWER Than ANYONE ELSE CAN QUOTE

West Penn rates are, and always have been, reasonable. They are the lowest that can be charged, consistent with reliable service. That is why mines and mills are discarding individual power stations to take West Penn service.

Compare West Penn service with that given Connellsville ten years ago from an isolated plant. That tells the story of West Penn supremacy in the Western Pennsylvania field.

We invite inquiry as to our rates. Let us know your needs. A post card or a telephone call will bring one of our representatives to you.

THURSDAY EVENING, JULY 3, 1913.

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH.

Tomorrow the nation celebrates the glorious Fourth officially known as Independence Day. This holiday is partially observed by old and young, especially the young; in fact, the younger the celebrants the more enthusiastic the celebration. The boys may not have had time to read and digest the famous Declaration of Independence, or realize how much it meant to the fathers when they made it, and how much it has since meant to the sons to whom it was bequeathed as a sacred legacy. The annual celebration of the event teaches them little but the name, but it serves to impress them with the fact that the day marks an event worth remembering, and their coming education will do the rest.

No national holiday has ever been so faithfully observed as Independence Day, though it marked only the beginning of the struggle for independence, and not its glorious conclusion as do most other national holidays. The aged veterans of the Civil War are just now celebrating the 47th anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg. This war, one of the most stubborn and bloody in all history, is very properly not the subject of holidays. It could be the subject of but one, and that a day of thanksgiving on the anniversary of its conclusion. But the American people prefer to forget the fratricidal strife as far as possible. They would at least bury its unpleasant recollections and preserve only its worth.

The Declaration of Independence was not only a declaration of independence, but it was also a declaration of war, and it required stout hearts to make it. The Colonies were new; their troops were raw; their means were limited; they were hedged about by enemies; cowards and traitors surrounded them. The civilized world, to whom they appealed for righteous judgment, seemed indifferent against them. England expected to crush them in one short campaign, and other nations were fully persuaded that such would be their fate. The Americans were strong only in their indomitable courage, their iron will and their characteristically American leader, George Washington, who had fought Indians and wildcats in Western Pennsylvania before he fought the French and British.

The spirit of that nation and permitted it to become a puissant world power. That spirit should be encouraged. It will be an evil day for the nation when the people find no responsive thrill in recalling the deeds of the great patriots who laid the foundations of the republic.

This is a progressive age, to be sure, politically as well as otherwise, but progress which forgets the Declaration and ignores the Constitution is progress in a wrong direction.

OUR INSANE.

The Fayette county authorities are beginning to appreciate the fact that they must soon provide some quarters for the proper housing of the insane. The matter has been agitated for some years past, but the Commissioners have put it off from time to time because they have managed to place our unfortunate neighbors in neighboring institutions. The latter seem to have reached the limit of their capacity. Mary Means, the negro who was acquitted of murder on the ground of insanity, is still in the county jail. The authorities cannot get her in Dismal, Fairfeld or Somerset because they are filled with patients, and the authorities are in a quandary. The Commissioners should give this question further consideration and take such action as may be best adapted to relieve a situation which is growing serious.

The drop in the mine surface on the West Side, and the breaking of a natural gas main laid over it, make it very inconvenient for Conneltsville for a portion of the day, but under other circumstances it might have been the death warrant of men employed in the mine.

The public service corporations of Conneltsville seem to need some regulation during this red-hot weather. The negro burglar who tried to rob a Main street store was a bad man, also a bad burglar.

In spite of terrific temperatures the June coal trade was quite brisk. The days have passed since the coal business had but one reason for its own. Former Governor Glasscock is the victim of base ingratitude. He has been sued for $5,000 damages by a man whom he pardoned from the Penitentiary after he had been sent there by Drumhead Court. The merit of the suit depends wholly upon the legality of the military court.

If the ice company doesn't do better Conneltsville will have to petition the court to let the brewers have the job. The Chamber of Commerce should beware how it passes resolutions calling on Congress to adopt certain legislation, lest it be accused of lobbying.

The Wolf of Wall Street has been captured by the Congressional Lobby Probers. Mighty hunters they.

It is a pity the weather at Gettysburg has been so severe on the old veterans, but what else could they expect in 1913?

Ex-Senator Berkey H. Boyd of Scotland has resigned his clerkship in the State Treasury to take a better job at home. Men of ability and energy can always do better at home.

The Congressional Lobby Probe intimates that there is a newspaper lobby. The Democrats are fooling with a hornet's nest.

There's still a few people tryin' to find a good dollar-a-day job. The feller that goes thro' life without makin' any enemies is never round shouldered from carryin' money. Why does a feller that carries a gait his hair cut allus wear a narrow belimed derby? Notin' wears it welcome out as soon as the dandy. A girl is an ole maid at twenty nowadays. A feller kin quit anything. Look at Secretary Bryan. He hasn't made a speech since he went to California.

EXTRAVAGANCE.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Slawsh."

Extravagance according to the dictionary is the process of expending profusely.

But extravagance doesn't always mean the same thing. Some people expend profusely when they buy a bill collector a ten cent cigar and ask him to come again for his money. Others live modestly so long as they make an automobile do a whole season.

There was a time in this country when extravagance meant of buying food at a store instead of raising it in the back yard. Nowadays the average man isn't extravagant until he orders a porterhouse steak at a first-class restaurant without looking at the price list.

A long time ago people were extravagant whenever they spent money for things which they did not need. But no man is extravagant today unless he cashes in his life insurance to buy his wife an electric car.

This is a disturbing situation. When a citizen of this great and hardily prosperous country does not feel that he is extravagant so long as he is only spending money with one hand, it is time to be alarmed. Presently the nation will have a financial chill and thousands of happy Americans will take up the task of trying to turn Oriental rugs and player pianos into groceries with no success at all. When a government erects $75,000 public buildings in order to save $1,000 a year in postage stamps when railroad directors buy branch lines for

To the Man

Who Runs the Store.

Are the goods on your shelves advertised by the manufacturers who induced you to stock up with them?

If you were called upon to advertise these goods, and to let people know that you sold them, what medium would you employ?

Without hesitation, we can answer this question for you: THE LOCAL NEWSPAPERS, of course.

You know, Mr. Dealer, that the one way to create an actual demand that means sales over your counter is through the medium of the daily press. When manufacturers, therefore, want to advertise their goods tell them that the way to help you move these goods from your shelves is to use the newspapers of this city.

And be sure to co-operate with the manufacturer who spends money to bring customers to your store.

Dealers and manufacturers who are interested in local newspaper advertising for nationally distributed products are requested to write to the BUREAU OF ADVERTISING, AMERICAN NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS ASSOCIATION, World Building, New York City.

TO HAVE NEW CHURCH

United Brethren Congregation Decides to Build.

That Owensdale shall have a new United Brethren Church building is the unanimous decision of the official board of that church. The action taken by the congregation indicates the new lease of life the town has taken since the coke works have ended their operations.

For some time the board has been considering thoroughly the repairing of the present building which was built 30 years ago, but investigation showed that the structure is not good enough to justify that expense. The board has authorized some temporary repairs to the building, and a money raising campaign will be started for the new building. It is sufficient funds are secured by the first of January the new building will be commenced April 1, 1914, otherwise the church will be built a year later.

No definite plan has been adopted as the board is considering the best way and means for carrying out the project. It was feared a year or two ago that when the coke works were closed permanently that Owensdale and vicinity would suffer greatly, but since that time many have bought their own homes and more improvements have been made during the present season than for many years past, and the town shows better signs of permanency than ever before. Hence the board feels justified in this new enterprise. The board is composed of Nathaniel King, Jefferson King, L. E. Rush, L. E. Keller, Harvey Nicola, Michael DeWalt, William Muir, F. J. Burkhardt, Allan Shalinger and Charles Chain. (Rev. J. J. Funk of Scottdale is the pastor.)

The Sunday School has been increasing rapidly and last Sunday there were 124 in attendance, the largest number on any Sunday of this year.

MINE FIRE

Discovered in Old Workings of Solon Plant of Prospect Company.

Several Lower Connelville region plants are threatened with trouble by reason of mine fire which was discovered yesterday in the Solon mine of the Prospect Coal & Coke Company.

The fire had been smoldering in some of the old workings for some time and had been unnoticed. These mines connect with some others in the vicinity and all supply coal to a group of some 600 ovens.

Miss Snell and Miss Law and Charles Page. Refreshments were served at the Ramsay home.

Veronice, the one year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Markovitch, who died at Brinkerton, was buried in the Trauger cemetery yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ong are the proud parents of a son born yesterday. Mrs. Henry Jones of Pittsburgh, is the guest of her son, Frank Jones.

Miss Rose Scott of Greensburg, was the guest of Miss Irene Bowers yesterday.

Mrs. Donald Kolster was a Pittsburgh visitor yesterday.

Mrs. John Ramsay of Leckrone, was the guest of Mrs. Thomas Jones yesterday.

William Hinkley of Youngwood, was a caller here yesterday.

Company E, Tenth Regiment left on a special train over the Pennsylvania railroad for camp at Erie last evening. They were late having their baggage hauled to the depot as the transfer wagons wrecked, breaking open a number of lockers. The contents were gathered up and loaded on the train.

The game yesterday at Standard between Standard and Moorewood resulted in a victory for Standard of 5-2.

MOUNT PLEASANT, July 2.—The Woman's Christian Temperance Union Institute held in the Baptist Church yesterday by the Scottdale, Alverton, Tarr and Mount Pleasant unions was quite a success. There was the best turnout of the local union that there has been for some time. The program opened at 10.30 A. M. with devotional exercises by Mrs. D. R. Cochran of Alverton. This was followed by a paper on "Advance Movement," by Mrs. W. W. Elcher of Scottdale. Her paper was very good, beginning with temperance work in 1850 and following along until the organization of the first W. C. T. U. in 1875 and of the work along all lines. Mrs. Wallace Ryland of this place had a paper on antismoking, which was short and to the point. Mrs. Anna Garber of Scottdale and Mrs. Sevilla McAfee and Mrs. William Ryland of this place were appointed a committee to report on by-laws and constitution. A nice luncheon was served and the afternoon session opened at 1.15 with devotional exercises by Mrs. Lebb of Alverton. The local union held a model meeting and all the officers made reports. The flower mission fund report showed $250 in money given out during the year and 520 garments given away. Mrs. Harriet Brothers gave the soldiers and sailors, miners and foreign work 5,250 pairs of Sunday school papers, 150 laundries, 50 growing plants, clothing, shoes and stockings, 30 glasses of jelly and 150 bouquets to shut-ins, $2.50 in cash was spent, three dozen of carnations were given out on Memorial Day, and ten widows' widows were kept in reading material.

Mrs. G. W. Stoner was elected president. Mrs. F. L. Marsh, vice president. Mrs. J. L. Updegraff, treasurer. Mrs. D. M. Stoner, corresponding secretary and Mrs. Ryland, acting secretary. Miss Anna Stoner sang a delightful solo. Mrs. F. R. Lebb of Alverton read a paper on "Co-operation with Missionary Societies," and a paper on "Suffrage" was read by Mrs. Anna Garber of Scottdale. A preliminary drill was conducted by Mrs. L. H. Lebb of Scottdale, and the question box in charge of Mrs. George W. Stoner ended the session.

Gita Swartz, who has been working in Richmond, Va., has come home to accept a position with the West Penn Company.

Four of Mount Pleasant's veterans are home from Gettysburg. They are Jonathan Barron, Jeremiah Finkefrock, Joseph Overholt and Mr. C. G. These three men stated they did not have any place to stay and that they were forced to pay 40 cents for a bowl of bean soup and 50 cents for two hard boiled eggs.

Misses Mary Elcher, Rosa Patterson and Charles Patterson, drove over to Somerset and brought back with them Mrs. Rita Patterson and her daughter Adelaide.

The following took the Bible normal examination in the teachers' training class at the Church of God yesterday evening: J. H. Santmyer, F. P. Elcher, Lyman Fox, Ernest Barr, Ira D. Sellers, Miss Loretta Finca, Miss Martha Scott, Mrs. J. L. Gouey, Miss Ada Bungalow, Miss Anna Mathias, Miss Gladys Myers, Miss Ruth Mathias, Miss Lydia Brown and Mrs. Eva Stouffer. Martin Ridener of Connelville, was a caller here yesterday.

John McCurdy, Dr. and Mrs. F. J. Marsh, Mrs. John Spolzel and William Spolzel of Detroit, Mich., motored over to the Pike Run Country Club yesterday where they were guests of Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Marsh.

Mrs. Nannie Elder of Hamilton, Missouri, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. William Byers of Main street.

Discovered in Old Workings of Solon Plant of Prospect Company.

Several Lower Connelville region plants are threatened with trouble by reason of mine fire which was discovered yesterday in the Solon mine of the Prospect Coal & Coke Company.

The fire had been smoldering in some of the old workings for some time and had been unnoticed. These mines connect with some others in the vicinity and all supply coal to a group of some 600 ovens.

TO HAVE NEW CHURCH

United Brethren Congregation Decides to Build.

That Owensdale shall have a new United Brethren Church building is the unanimous decision of the official board of that church. The action taken by the congregation indicates the new lease of life the town has taken since the coke works have ended their operations.

For some time the board has been considering thoroughly the repairing of the present building which was built 30 years ago, but investigation showed that the structure is not good enough to justify that expense. The board has authorized some temporary repairs to the building, and a money raising campaign will be started for the new building. It is sufficient funds are secured by the first of January the new building will be commenced April 1, 1914, otherwise the church will be built a year later.

No definite plan has been adopted as the board is considering the best way and means for carrying out the project. It was feared a year or two ago that when the coke works were closed permanently that Owensdale and vicinity would suffer greatly, but since that time many have bought their own homes and more improvements have been made during the present season than for many years past, and the town shows better signs of permanency than ever before. Hence the board feels justified in this new enterprise. The board is composed of Nathaniel King, Jefferson King, L. E. Rush, L. E. Keller, Harvey Nicola, Michael DeWalt, William Muir, F. J. Burkhardt, Allan Shalinger and Charles Chain. (Rev. J. J. Funk of Scottdale is the pastor.)

The Sunday School has been increasing rapidly and last Sunday there were 124 in attendance, the largest number on any Sunday of this year.

GINK AND DINK—A Few Simple Instructions for Gink.

Recent Weddings in Fayette County.

Special to The Courier.
UNIONTOWN, July 2.—The most interesting of recent weddings in Fayette county was the marriage of Miss Mary Marshall, the talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Marshall of this city, and Howard Fisher Taylor, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel E. Taylor of Housherville, in Uniontown on the evening of June 25. The ceremony was performed in St. Peter's Episcopal Church by Rev. John H. Wightman of Pittsburgh, a former pastor of St. Peter's. The wedding was followed by a reception in the Laurel Club room, both the church and the club room were simply decorated for the occasion. During the reception the bride and groom left for a wedding trip of about three months. They will be at home at Housherville, Pa., after September 1. There was a large number of out-of-town guests present at both the wedding and the reception.

Harry L. Van Swearingen, principal of the Berkeley school in Uniontown, and Miss Elizabeth R. Ford, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ford of Collier, were united in marriage on Wednesday morning, July 2, at the Second Presbyterian parsonage in Uniontown by Dr. W. Scott Bowman. They left for a wedding trip to Philadelphia, New York and Atlantic City. Mr. Van Swearingen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Van Swearingen of North Union township.

Walter L. Herrick, of Pennsylvania, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Herrick, and Miss Mary L. Murphy of Grindstone, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Murphy, were united in marriage on June 25 at the Presbyterian parsonage in New Salem by Rev. E. B. Manley.

Hall, both of Connelville, were united in marriage. David N. Hall and Mrs. Martin are children of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hall, while Mrs. Hall is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bowley, and Mr. Martin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Martin.

FIGHT FOR $2.50 COKE SECOND HALF WON BY PRODUCERS

Who Stand Solidly together Without Organization for This Price.

BIG TONNAGE SOLD JULY ONLY

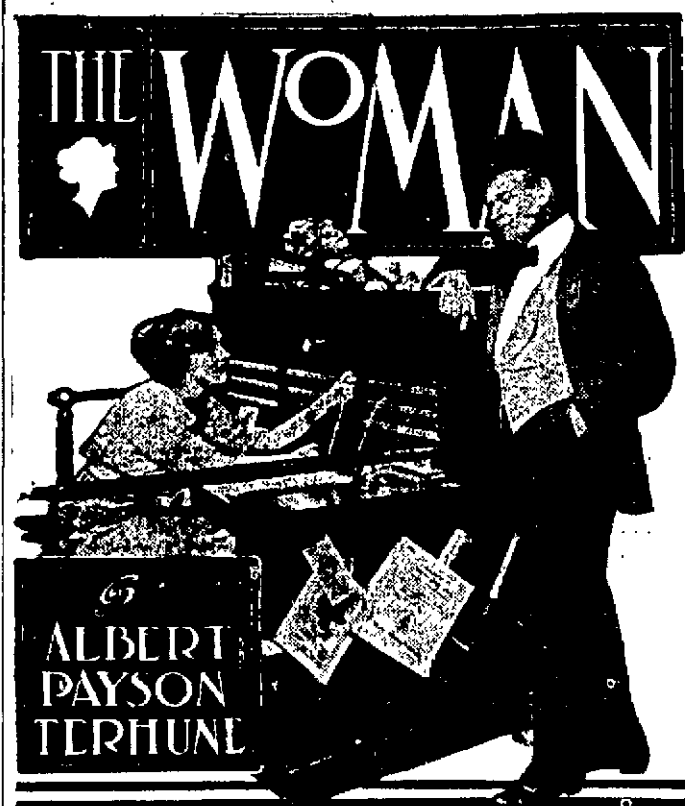

In Order to Permit the Furnacemen to Possess to Adjust the Iron Prices to Cost of Coke, but Rate Regarded as Fixed for Balance of 1913.

From The Weekly Courier.
PITTSBURGH, July 2.—The coke operators have secured a distinct victory in their long contest for a price of $2.50 on second-half contract coke. Until late last week furnacemen had refrained from closing contracts, while the operators stood firm for the $2.50 price. Then a tactical move was made. July coke was offered at $2.50 and some purchases were immediately made. This was in face of the fact that small prompt lots had sold at $2.25 during the week, but furnacemen had observed that no large tonnages, nothing like the amount of coke needed to operate a single furnace for a month, were offered at any price below $2.50 for standard grade coke.

Up to this date between 75,000 and 100,000 tons of furnace coke have been sold to various interests for July shipment at the flat rate of $2.50. These sales were made not only by the group of operators who have been standing out most prominently for $2.50 coke, but also by outsiders who have been holding aloof from what had developed into a definite contest between coke seller and coke buyer.

The movement for $2.50 coke has proved altogether stronger than was estimated by the average buyer. A feature of strength not hitherto recognized is that while several sellers had not declared themselves openly as intending to insist upon $2.50, these sellers have not proved a weakness in the situation, but have stood out for the price, reasoning very logically that buyers in placing orders would give them at least as much consideration as they would give the operators who have been most pronounced in the $2.50 demand, and this theory has worked out in practice, since as noted some of the selling of July coke at $2.50 has been by outsiders.

In some quarters there are claims made that the $2.50 sales were made with a string, presumably by way of a price guarantee. Not only is this positively denied by the operators making the sales, but there is collateral evidence worthy of considerable respect that no such guarantee or other consideration was given. Estimates vary as to the total amount of coke involved in contracts which expired June 30. It has been estimated that the group of operators which sold through the agency of the 'Producers' Coke Company made contracts for the first half involving about 175,000 tons of coke, and it is sometimes assumed that this is the amount of tonnage which expired. There are reasons, however, that cause two of the consumers having such first half contracts covered for second half quite awhile ago, while on the other hand there are a few contracts made by others for the half year only. It is true, however, that many of the contracts outside of those by the Pro-

CAN A WOMAN do as she pleases in her youth and by the strength of her determination, avoid the consequences? Can she, by laborious secrecy and tireless evasion, make the world judge her as the world judges men and not as the world judges women? Can she—once and once only—step beyond the bounds fixed by Society and resolutely step back without a penalty?

This great problem of a Woman's Will Against the World is the problem of The Woman—a problem only shadowy in the play, become salient and challenging in the intense, arresting story which Mr. Terhune has based upon the powerful de Mille play produced with such great success by Belasco.

ducers' Coke Company were for the year rather than the half year.

Sales to date for July, at any rate, seem to include something like half the total coke involved, and with this much done the remainder is obviously easy for other buyers can hardly expect to obtain concessions.

In some quarters it has been suggested by way of criticism that the stand of the operators was for $2.50 for second half contracts, and that sales for July only represent a compromise. Such a criticism is not just, for the operators would not be so arbitrary as to require consumers to buy their coke for a specific period only. From time immemorial there has been in coke both a prompt and a contract market, and it would be idle to attempt to destroy the one to support the other.

The closing of a large tonnage of July coke represents in substance a sensible effort to resolve the real point at issue between coke seller and coke buyer, the disparity between the price asked for coke and the position of the pig iron market. If $2.50 is too high a price with pig iron at its present level, then the situation could be relieved by pig iron advancing, and to close coke business for July only gives the pig iron market a chance to respond. This it is likely to do. The Valley-Pittsburgh market has been quite steady in the past fortnight, after its decline of nearly six months, and is therefore ready for an advance, which $2.50 coke should encourage. The market stands about as follows:

Prompt furnace $2.50
Contract furnace $2.50
Prompt country $2.25 to $2.50
Contract country $2.25 to $2.50

There has been considerable contracting for foundry coke in the past week. One of the most important buyers in this immediate district has closed at about $2.30 for a twelve-month supply.

NO MIDSUMMER DULLNESS IN THE STEEL TRADE

Some Cancellations but There Remains a Large Volume of Business on Books for Second Half.

NEW YORK, July 2.—The American Metal Market and Daily Iron & Steel Report will say tomorrow morning:

The steel mills have maintained full production through June, though in wire there has been decreased output of finished product, through seasonably light demand, much of the steel thus released going into other finished products.

There will be very few closings this month for repairs, and practically none for lack of orders, but output will be materially reduced through weather conditions, which indeed have affected tonnages in June.

Specifications against finished steel contracts averaged between 60% and 70% during June, showing on the whole a very slight decrease from May, though at some points there were noteworthy increases.

In the past few days both new buying and specifying have materially decreased, this being presumably due to reasonable conditions. Some mills have an unusual volume of requests to cancel, but the majority of mills have not experienced this disposition. It remains the fact that the steel mills have on their books a really large volume of sound business for second half.

Connellsville coke operators, who have been holding out for $2.50 on second half contracts for furnace coke, have met the conservation of buyers by selling 75,000 to 100,000 tons of coke for July only, at the $2.50 price. While technically this is a compromise, practically it seems to be a skillful move, giving the furnace time to develop a better pig iron market. In this direction the prospects have become more favorable. Some markets having shown definite resistance to further declines in the past fortnight, while there are persistent rumors of heavy purchases of southern iron, which usually presage an upward turn in the whole market.

The steel market will likely be very quiet for 30 or 60 days, but thereafter a clear and definite improvement is indicated. The strength of the steel market at this time rests upon the fact that the industry capacity is undersized for the growth of the country.

THE COAL TRADE

Gas Men Make Big Demand on the Pittsburgh District.

The feature of the coal trade in the Pittsburgh district is an improved labor supply. Mines are operating steadily although little new business is being considered, most of the operators being well booked. There is a heavy demand for gas coal, far greater than the market can supply. Prices are firm.

In the Middle West domestic orders are being placed earlier than usual and steam coal is in demand. At Cleveland the supply of lake coal has improved since last week.

In New York there is little of the Somerset and Clearfield coal on the docks, although the poorer grades can be obtained at the mine for $1.10 a ton, and fair quality brings but $1.10 and $1.15.

A Stirring Story of Military Adventure and of a Strange Wartime Wooing, Founded on the Great Play of the Same Name

By BRONSON HOWARD AND HENRY TYRRELL

Illustrations From Actual War-time Photographs by Brady

COPYRIGHT, 1912, BY G. F. PUTNAM'S SONS

A cavalry officer with rugged face and bloodshot eyes, bareheaded, jockeyed, his shirt open at the throat, rested in a field to the east of Middletown after a hurried inspection of his troops to the left of the Union line. The colonel of a New York regiment rode up, proffered a flask and said: "Colonel West, have a drink with me before you go in again. You seem to need it, and I expect at this rate you'll be either in hades or in glory before another hour passes."

Contrary to his reputation, habit and principle, Kerchival West accepted the kindly offer and swallowed a full sized man's drink, known in trooper parlance as a "slug." Then, as if suddenly possessed by a demon, he swung out his saber and, turning to his men with the signal cry of "Now for the charge!" led the cavalry in a brilliant sortie across the fenceless meadows and at the line of straggly woods where the advanced Confederate battery still belched forth defiance.

There was no withstanding such impetuosity. The charging troopers came back with flying colors, several captured guns and a score of prisoners—first herald of the turning tide of victory. But now their wild leader was not riding at their head. No one had seen him fall. Whoever knew what had happened to the individual forgot it in the jubilation excitement over the general result achieved.

The Federal line was now invincibly reestablished. At 4 o'clock Sheridan ordered the grand charge, which was begun under his personal direction by the Nineteenth corps on the right and taken up by the successive commands along the line to the left, the cavalry on the flanks charging at the same time. Then the Confederate batteries opened up, and the roar of artillery and the splitting crash of exploding shells mingled with the force roll of the musketry.

Colonel Robert Ellingham, in the southern ranks, wondered what was happening at Belle Bosquet. In the forenoon he had swept with his men past the old place, facing northward, and seeing everything in flight ahead, capturing prisoners and recapturing their own men who had fallen into Federal hands, including the elusive Edward Thornton. Now the Confederates were passing the same point again, hurrying and still more hurried in the opposite direction, driven from the field they thought they had won, in the worst rout of which poor Bob had ever been a part.

"By the great horn spoon!" said General Buckthorn to General Haverrill. "We're going to have as much trouble in holding our men back from charging the enemy now as we did to stop their retreat this morning."

It had been the intention of General Sheridan to hold back his left after the enemy had been dislodged and by advancing his right to force the Confederates to the east of the valley pike, thus cutting off their retreat to Strasburg and Fisher's hill. But, even as the veteran Buckthorn had whimpered, the troops were no longer bent upon avenging their reverses of the morning; there was no restraining them, and the whole line pressed on irresistibly until the old camps on Cedar creek had been regained, together with enough prisoners, guns, wagons and battle-flags to turn previous mortification into riotous joy and make matter for a rousing dispatch to send to Washington.

CHAPTER XXIV.

THE Valley of Desolation. WHILE Early's troops were still running and Sheridan's reeling, the customary and truce was declared in order to permit the removal of the wounded from the field and the decent disposal of the dead. Not only soldiers, but civilians from far and near flocked upon the scene. From Winchester, Kernstown, Newtown, Middletown, up from the valley and down from the mountains came men and women, searching amid the heaped up horrors where late the battle lines had stood. Some came for love and some—alas—for loot. Sunset reddened the ghastly field; then fell theinky pall of night, and the lanterns of the ghostly ministrants twinkled in the gloom far beyond the circling camps.

Gertrude Ellingham, Madeline West and Jenny Buckthorn, led by Sergeant Barker and followed by the faithful Josephus, made up one of the most indefatigable groups of rescuers. They had ascertained that Kerchival West was not among the living Federal troops, either in the celebrating camps or in the hospital tents. Now at last they sought a pitiful, uncertain comfort in satisfying themselves that he was not among the dead on the field.

"General Haverrill told me," said Gertrude, "that although our men mean the southern troops were defeated they managed to carry off a considerable number of prisoners. I believe Colonel West is among them."

"I know Captain Heartsease is," murmured Jenny forlornly.

"If nothing worse has befallen my brother than that," added Madeline, "I suppose I ought to be thankful, as at least he will now be out of the awful fighting. But it is a cruel injustice if that wicked wretch, Captain Thornton, is still to be at large."

They rode on in silence—for General Buckthorn had seen to it that they were provided with mounts—until at last Gertrude exclaimed: "I can't rest anyway. I'm going on. Josephus will follow me. You girls will be all right—won't you, dears?"

"Where are you going?" cried the other two aghast.

"On to the ford, and then to Fisher's hill, or Strasburg, or wherever they have gone. Don't mind me. I'll bring you comforting news, or I won't come back at all. Good night."

And before they could persuade her—that was what she fled from now, as from unbearable torture—she rode off exultantly into the darkness of the mountain shadows like another Valkyrie bearing her stricken warrior's soul to the glorious and blissful Valhalla.

Belle Bosquet was deserted. For miles around stretched the heart sickening panorama of fenceless, trampled fields, ruined farms and empty granaries.

For Sheridan had accomplished only too literally the fateful task assigned him by General Grant: "In pushing up the Shenandoah valley."

It is desirable that nothing should be left to invite the enemy to return. Take all provisions, forage and stock wanted for the use of your command. Such as cannot be consumed, destroy."

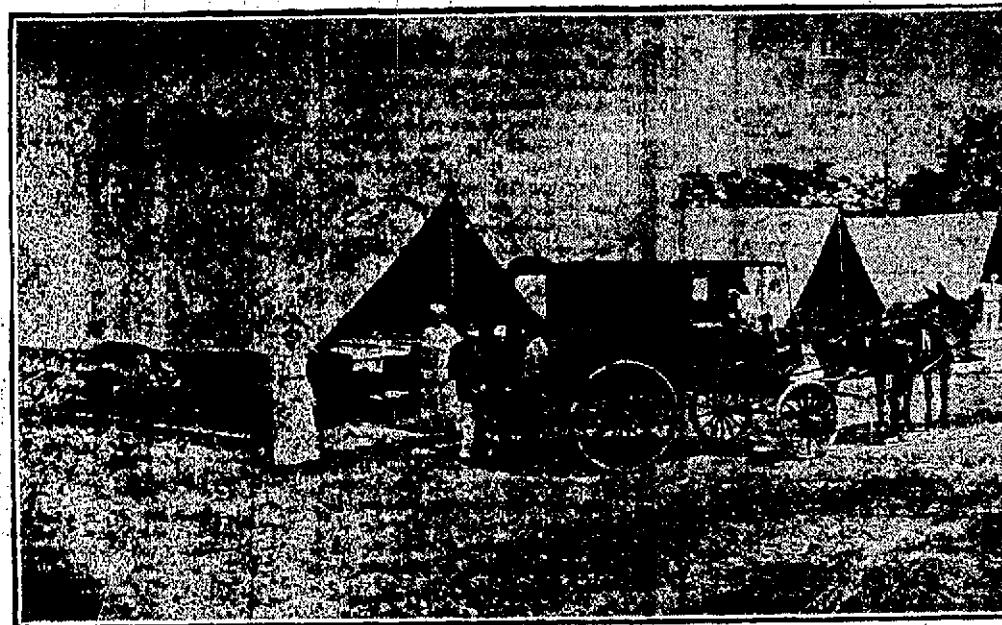

The same destitution that compelled Early to retreat as far as Newmarket, forty miles south of Cedar Creek, to supply and reorganize the broken Confederate forces prevented Sheridan from following them into this region: His cavalry, however, during this pause in the movements of the main army was set about a campaign against the guerrilla bands of Mosby and Gilmore.

It was not until a fortnight after the battle of Cedar Creek that Gertrude Ellingham and the small party of friends and neighbors who journeyed with her and likewise followed the path of necessity, as well as of duty and affection, in moving southward after the army, came up with the corps that had been General Ransauer's and which included her brother Robert's regiment.

But General Ransauer had been killed, the cavalry was for the most part dismounted, and Colonel Ellingham's precise whereabouts could not be ascertained. He had gone out on a raid with the irregulars who were harassing Sheridan's rear to prevent his carrying out General Grant's orders to cut Lee's railroad communications by which supplies were brought from the south for the Confederate army at Petersburg.

The State Department of Health's Emergency Hospital.

The State Department of Health's Emergency Hospital at Gettysburg has been one of the busiest places on the field during the past few days. Veterans of both north and south have lain side by side on their cots frantically and many visiting civilians have also been treated. The hospital is completely equipped for the care of all classes of cases from the most serious operative to minor ailments. Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, commissioner of health is in personal charge of the large staff of physicians and nurses.

"And what has General Early done with the prisoners he brought here?" Gertrude inquired with shaking heart. "Sent them on to Danville, maybe to North Carolina, and the officers probably to Richmond," was the vague reply she got. "You see, miss, it's hard enough scarping now to feed our own men."

Kerchival West was among these prisoners, and so was Captain Heartsease, and both were seemingly in condition to bear transportation. This much information was elicited on trustworthy authority, and it compensated for the hardships and anxieties through which the dauntless Virginia girl had passed. From Staunton she sent these reassuring tidings to Jenny Buckthorn, who remained with her father at Winchester, and to Madeline West, whom General Haverrill had sent with an escort to Washington.

Love alone must guide her in her search. Gertrude declared, but she had the courage to resolve that love should win. Her home was broken up, the valley desolated, and the cause upon which all had been staked was narrowing down to a deadly crisis where men's self interest, fortune, even life itself, had to be thrown unhesitatingly into the balance.

While she waited at Staunton for some clue, some enlightenment to determine what direction her pilgrimage should take now that the winter was about setting in, a detachment of the wild mounted troops came up the valley from a successful raid on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad in West Virginia. A bearded savage rushed with a glad cry at Gertrude—and she was laughing and crying in her brother's arms.

"Oh, Bob," she faltered, "I was beginning to think I should never see you again nor any one else I loved."

"Don't give up, sis!" he rejoined, but his tone was worried and serious. "We are not beaten yet. If we have to leave the valley the enemy can't stay here either. He is trying to prevent us from joining General Lee at Petersburg, but in the meantime we are keeping him and an army bigger than all our forces put together from going to help General Grant, who, after all, is no nearer to Richmond than McLean was two years and a half ago."

"Oh, never mind the armies now! Where can I find those two poor prisoners?"

Bob shook his head and paced the floor in troubled silence.

"Where is Thornton now?" asked Gertrude anxiously.

"To my certain knowledge he is keeping in touch with Mosby at Leesburg or Upperville. It is not at all likely he even knows that Kerchival was captured at Cedar Creek. But he is such a vindictive devil that I suppose he will always be looking out for the satisfaction of his private revenge before the interests of the service."

In the Federal camps at Kernstown and Winchester the bustle of confident activity and a general air of hopeful expectation were as marked as the spirit of grim, dogged determination was behind the scenes at Confederate headquarters. At the beginning of the new year one of the two divisions of the Nineteenth corps, under General Buckthorn, was sent to Petersburg, reducing the effective force of the Army of the Shenandoah to one division of infantry and three of cavalry. General Haverrill's mood of somber reserve was a matter of inquiry to the friends who knew him only in his military duties in the silent, dispirited manner of a fatalist. Not a man in the army dared to formulate the question that was in the minds of many. Did the general suspect that the heroic Lieutenant Bedloe, who sacrificed his life at Three Top mountain, was his own disgraced son? Those who knew best declared that he did not—and the famous dispatch to Washington in praise of Bedloe's deed was adduced as confirming evidence.

When Gertrude Ellingham wrote for particulars as to Kerchival West's participation in the battle of Cedar Creek, the general replied with formal brevity that he must disclaim responsibility as well as any special knowledge in the matter. When Jenny Buckthorn questioned him personally in the hope of getting some clue that might aid in finding Captain Heartsease, wounded and captured in Lieutenant Bedloe's raid upon the enemy's signal station, he was scarcely more communicative, except on one point—that Captain Heartsease, following the practice of Major Young's scouts, had worn a Confederate uniform, which would put him in the category of a secret service officer or spy and therefore prejudice his status as a prisoner of war.

Evidently General Haverrill had but little comfort to give to others, and it was certain he kept none for himself. The chain of circumstances, from the unexplained duel of Kerchival West and Edward Thornton at Charleston, to the recent happenings in which Kerchival's name was still coupled with that of Mrs. Constance Haverrill, culminating in the damning fact that the traitor miniature portrait given in a trying hour to young Frank Haverrill had turned up three and a half years later in the possession of Colonel West, bound a proud and sensitive nature like that of the general to disquieting silence.

General Sheridan's work in the Shenandoah valley was now practically completed. He was now ready to plan a junction with General Grant at Petersburg, convinced that a decisive Federal victory there would open the gates of Richmond and close the war.

Here in the beleaguered capital Bob received the first direct word from his sister Gertrude that had come to him for many anxious weeks. She had left Danville after a long and harrowing search there which disclosed the fact that Kerchival West was among a convoy of sick and wounded prisoners lately "sent on," presumably, to Richmond. Thither Gertrude herself was now making her way as best she might, attended by the unshakable Josephus.

CHAPTER XIX.

The Surrender.

IT was a lovely Sabbath morning of springtime—the 2d of April, 1865. The church bells of Richmond had rung out the summons to divine service.

At St. Paul's Episcopal church the usual large and aristocratic congregation listened attentively to the earnest discourse of the Rev. Dr. Minnigerode. Jefferson Davis, the chief executive of the southern Confederacy, occupied his pew in the middle of the central aisle, nearly opposite the now vacant one belonging to General Robert E. Lee.

An orderly in uniform entered the church somewhat precipitately, yet without disturbance, and delivered a telegram to Mr. Davis, who quietly rose and went out. The occurrence was noticed, but attracted no special attention among a congregation who during the four years past had grown accustomed to sudden alarms and untimely notice of threatened attacks. It was the day after the battle of Five Forks.

The dispatch was from General Lee, announcing his withdrawal from Petersburg and the consequent necessity for the immediate evacuation of Richmond. "Immediate evacuation" meant getting out by 8 o'clock that night. The news spread as only such news can. Women wept, men wept and cursed and defecated; children wailed, negroes rather enjoyed the excitement, especially after the issue of a proclamation to the effect that all who wished might come to the commissary department and get free provisions.

As for the soldiers, they had their orders from General Lee: Troops were to leave their lines everywhere at 8 o'clock that evening and take up the line of march for Amelia Court House, a small Virginia village on the Richmond and Danville railroad, some forty miles southwest of Richmond.

Early in the afternoon Colonel Robert Ellingham hastily dismounted from his horse in front of a house in Franklin street and sprang up the front steps. Before he reached the door it flew open and Gertrude, dressed in white lawn, extended both hands in eager welcome. Beside her, in black civilian clothes, stood what looked like the ghost of Kerchival West. In the background appeared another familiar phantom of the far past—none other than Dr. Ellingham of Charleston, now white haired and more aged looking than the lapse of years alone should have called for.

"Sister! Kerchival, old boy! Uncle!" panted Bob, full of excitement. "Were you prepared for the news? What do you think you'll do?"

"Kerchival and I are going to be married right away," answered Gertrude, with the astounding imperturbability of one who had arranged and settled everything.

"Married!" gasped Bob, instinctively clutching the air, as if for support. "Now—at such a time? Don't you know that I am under marching orders and that President Davis and the cabinet are to leave for Danville by the evening train and that the Federal army will be occupying Richmond by this time tomorrow?"

"Yes, Robert. We were in church this morning when the news came. Kerchival and I have figured it all out, and the doctor agrees with us—that as Richmond has fallen and Kerchival has been released from Libby on parole and uncle is here from Charleston the only way for us two to guard against separation again is to get married now so that I can be with—with my husband, whatever happens. So we have sent for the Rev. Dr. Minnigerode, and, now that you are here, the ceremony can be performed and you be off to join General Lee in half an hour's time, for I suppose he will need you now more than ever."

So they were married, Kerchival and Gertrude, and Colonel Ellingham left them immediately after the ceremony radiantly happy together in the midst of the climatic converging of all the storms of war.

President Davis and his cabinet had left Richmond by special train for Danville. Colonel Robert Ellingham had hurried away on horseback in the opposite direction immediately after the marriage ceremony to join the army of General Lee, now marching out of Petersburg up the north side of the Appomattox river toward Amelia Court House.

The only people who remained in Richmond were those who were poor and could not go away, or those who, like the Ellinghams, had home interests to hold them there and no other place to go to should they leave the city, and those other who, like Colonel Kerchival West, were Union soldiers in Confederate prisons or on parole.

At the same time General Grant was riding into Petersburg through deserted streets between rows of closed, silent tenements. The next day he started with his army after the departing Confederates, his columns moving south of the Appomattox parallel to Lee's route north of that stream. He had foreseen that Lee in his retreat would endeavor to reach Amelia Court House, where his separate columns coming from Petersburg and Richmond could unite and where he might expect to receive supplies.

Two days later, the retreat continuing, Sheridan descended with a large force upon the Confederate rear guard at Salter's creek, a small tributary flowing north into the Appomattox, and overpowered the command of Generals Ewell and Anderson, capturing these and several other high officers, including General Lee's eldest son, General G. W. Custis Lee.

On April 7 the Confederates stopped at Farmville to feast, having come up with the first provisions that had reached them since leaving Petersburg, and to fight again. This time they succeeded in beating off Sheridan's cavalry and pushed on another stage toward Lynchburg.

But the once great army of Northern Virginia was now reduced to two small corps of infantry, and the cavalry corps under General Fitz Lee, Gordon and Rosser, for the time commander of the Laurel brigade of the Shenandoah valley had rallied a new mounted force and was now doing yeoman's service in an all but hopeless campaign where laurels were scarce, but where loyalty and courage did not go unhonored.

Colonel Robert Ellingham was with Gordon, whose cavalry corps, after fighting all the way from Petersburg as rear guard for the wagon trains, was now transferred to the front.

"My corps is worn to a frazzle," said the gallant Gordon at the campfire council on the night of the 8th, "but if the force beyond Appomattox Court House is Sheridan's cavalry alone we can hold it until Longstreet comes up and then cut through."

The attack was made at daybreak. There was a moment when it took on the factitious look of a victory as the Confederate lines charged, cheering wildly, and redoubled their fire as the Union cavalry slowly fell back. They did not know that Sheridan already had the game in his hands and was now only skirmishing for a wind-up without incurring any more loss than should be absolutely needful. No sooner had the cavalry disappeared from their front than Lee's troops saw the solid infantry lines of the Army of the James massed before them, ready for an attack. Longstreet, covering the Confederate rear, was at the same time threatened by Meade with a superior force and could not come to Gordon's aid. The firing suddenly ceased. The Confederate line halted, hesitated, then sullenly faced about and fell back upon the confused, forlorn mass of ragged grays that were huddled around Appomattox Court House.

"The war in Virginia is over," said Sheridan to General Haverrill, passing as the latter's troops still advanced, until a white flag of truce appeared in the distance, approaching like a reluctant dove of peace.

"Now there is nothing left me but to go and see General Grant," General Lee had said.

"Oh, general," came the protest of his lieutenants, "what will the world say of the surrender of your army in the field?"

"Yes, they will say hard things of us, I know. They will not understand how we were overwhelmed by numbers. But that is not the question. The question is, is it right to surrender? If it is right then I will take all the responsibility."

The note brought under flag of truce to the Federal lines was General Lee's reply to an earlier communication from General Grant. The proposition had been made and accepted for a suspension of hostilities pending negotiations looking to the surrender of Lee's army.

During the interval occupied by these arrangements a stately, gray bearded Federal officer approached Colonel Ellingham, who had been sent by General Gordon with the flag of truce, and drawing something—doubtless a document—from his side pocket said:

"Colonel, I have been requested while waiting to extend to you the courtesies of this side of the line—at the same time proffering the supposed document, which proved to be a silver flask. Then Colonel Ellingham recognized General Haverrill—the Mexican war comrade of his father under the old flag, and his own and Gertrude's guard until the great surrender of Appomattox. The surrender of civil strife that now had spent itself after laying the country and its homes and industries desolate.

"We meet under difficult circumstances, General Haverrill," faltered Bob, "but I trust there are no hard feelings?"

"None, Robert, my boy—quite the contrary. It is time, God knows! How are Gertrude and—"

"She and Kerchival were married last Sunday," answered Bob. "He saw the general's face alter strangely, and his whole attitude stiffen, as if his heart had suddenly frozen. So he has been to see General Lee, and I have been able to locate Captain Heartsease, and I hardly dare to speculate as to what has become of him."

"On that point I can give you welcome news," said General Haverrill, covering his old cordillity. "He escaped while being transferred from Danville and came to us at Petersburg, to rejoin the corps. But he was in no condition for campaigning, so I sent him on to Washington, where I have no doubt Miss Jenny Buckthorn will succeed in nursing him to recovery."

In due time word was received from General Grant that he was coming on immediately to discuss terms of surrender with the southern commander. General Grant's courier found General Lee near Appomattox Court House, lying under an apple tree upon a blanket spread over some rails, whence originated the report about Lee's having surrendered "beneath the apple tree of Appomattox."

The historic meeting of the two generals really took place at the house of William McLean, a Virginia, who, before and during the first battle of Manassas, had resided at McLean's, over Bull Run, and had removed thence to Appomattox expressly in order to be out of the war's way. General Grant, accompanied by Generals Sheridan and Ord and several other officers, including General Haverrill, presented a striking contrast to General Lee, who, with a couple of staff officers, awaited him in the old fashioned parlor of the McLean residence.

Grant, forty-three years old, medium sized and somewhat stoop shouldered, wore no marks of rank except a general's shoulder straps on his blue tannet blouse. His trousers were tucked in his boots, and he had neither spurs nor sword. Lee, a dozen years older than his late adversary, had the stature and bearing of an old knight crusader. His hair and beard were silver gray. He wore a plain but handsome uniform of Confederate gray, top boots with spurs, gauntlets and a dress sword. This unaccustomed side arm was a splendid blade engraved on one side with the motto "Aide toi et Dieu" ("aiders"), on the other side with the inscription, reminiscent of the campaign that had ended at Antietam, "General Robert E. Lee, from a Marylander, 1863."

SCOTSDALE BOYS HAVE A UNIQUE CAMPING CLUB

Boy Must be a Good Attendant at Sunday School to Join the Party.

LIKEWISE MUST EARN MONEY

Six Dollars Must be Secured to Pay for Two Weeks Outing; Bible Class Owns Ten Acres of Camp Ground on Indian Creek and Roaring Run.

Special to The Courier.

SCOTSDALE, July 3.—The Boys' Bible class of the Presbyterian Sunday school will camp on their own grounds this year, the realization of plans of the last year or so having come true. Hiking across from Mount Pleasant to Donnell, the advance guard of the summer campers, they have settled on their grounds a mile south of Donnell, at the junction of Indian creek and Roaring Run. They have pitched four big tents and several smaller ones and opened up the big bungalow for a two-week outing.

For 10 or 12 years this organization of boys has been camping, and last year they bought 10 acres of land for camping purposes. On the tract, which is in a beautiful forest, they have built a bungalow 32x44 feet with two big bunk rooms, a living room, and a porch 12x44 feet in dimensions. Each room contains a dozen bunks and two double beds. The bungalow is set on level ground and has a composition roof, and is an ideal living place for summer.

Laurel and ferns shade the banks of the stream and a mill dam makes a backwater of 500 to 600 feet, giving fine bathing facilities and a place on which to run the 16-foot boat, presented to the class by George Harter, one of their teachers. A store is near, a physician handy; Tri-State telephone line serves the camp, and the campers get their mail at Champion. To reach the camping place by railroad the campers travel up the Indian Creek Valley railroad to Roaring Run.

The Boys' Bible class is a unique organization and inquiries regarding it have come from so far west as Washington and from the east as well. A boy must be 10 years of age to join the class and must maintain an average of attendance of 75 per cent for the year in order to be eligible for the summer outing. He must earn $6 by his own efforts to pay for the two weeks at camp. The most of the boys have earned their money by gathering paper. Two boys gathered enough paper to sell to get their $6 credit and besides receive nearly $6 each in cash.

The class has been organized about 19 years with the aim of furnishing a healthful and pleasant summer outing, and the interest the boys take in this department of the Sunday School is intense. The class meets on Sunday evenings at 6:30 o'clock, and there are 39 boys in the class, the largest boys' class in any of the Sunday schools. G. Frank Kelly is the superintendent of the class and the teachers are George Harter, B. L. Reynolds and George McDougall. The officers are: Nelson Miller, president; Fred Seaman, vice president; John Cranner, secretary, and G. F. Kelly, treasurer.

The first camping party was made up of Robert Gove, William Miller, Herman Ruttledge, and Carl Gove. Later Gordon, James McMillan, Clyde Parker, Donald Shotts, Lyle Gove, Harold Hutchison, James Lantz, Raymond Gordon, Paul Fisher, Robert Christ, George Masser, Daniel Evans, William Lawrence, and M. Stauffer, Jr. John W. McWilliams, Glenn DeLoe.

This crowd will remain until July 15. From that time until August 1 the congregation will be given opportunity to use the camp from August 1 to 15. A party of about 150 boys and 15 nuns and Mrs. Kane will go into camp. After that the congregation and their friends will get the use of the camp.

TAKE STOCK OVER

Stauffer Estate Dominates the Meyersdale Coal Company.

A large block of the capital stock of the Meyersdale Coal Company was recently acquired by the heirs of Joseph R. Stauffer of Scottdale, who had previously been interested in the enterprise. The recent transaction now gives them full control of the property and they are planning to expand operations in the near future.

The mines, which are located at Little Somerset county, have already been electrically equipped, and a little later on it is planned to begin the development of a 1,400-acre tract which has not yet been touched. The coal found on this property is very high grade, analyzing as follows: Volatile, 18.46; fixed carbon, 78.63; ash, 4.91; sulphur, 0.662; B. T. U., 15,062.

James S. Braddock of Mount Pleasant, will be elected secretary of the company at the next meeting of the directors.

Antineutro Now Taxed.

The law imposing a 2 1/2 per cent tax on anthracite coal mined for market has been approved by the governor. It is said the coal companies will pass this tax on to the consumer, and that in some instances it will increase the cost 10 cents a ton.

Mine Makes Record.

Superior Coal Company's No. 1 mine, near Gillespie, Ill., set a new record last week by hoisting 3,808 tons of coal in eight hours.

for lots of people, with the noise and confusion of the Fourth of July. Like most of our holidays whose sentiment is being gradually pushed to the back-ground, the "Fourth" is the glorious "get-away" day for those who work hardest anticipating the suspension of business at fixed intervals—as well as for those who need not time their outings to meet holidays.

Still we don't believe that the sentiment associated with Independence Day—or other holidays—is lost track of by workers in stores, offices, factories and other daily occupations, while diverting their minds—and thus strengthening them—with periodical outings. It's not likely that those who set certain days for the commemoration of past events would want the population to house themselves up or mope around in idleness.

Vacation enjoyment—even for one day—is doubled for those who are well-dressed, comfortably dressed and dressed in fashion. And it so happens that this store can supply the apparel—hats to shoes—outer wear and underwear and all the distinguishing "fixings" for men, women, children or infants—congenial to dressy people's tastes.

—And for less—a great deal less—than the most of us had laid out to spend. Here, we'll be working hard—but willingly, intelligently and helpfully—today and until closing time Thursday at 6, getting you in readiness for the "Fourth." Friday the store will be closed tight all day.

This Genuine Mark Cross
SAFETY RAZOR
Complete—Holder and Blade

On Sale Thursday

The illustration of the Mark Cross Safety Razor and blade is actual size. Frame is triple silver plate, blade is wrapped in oiled paper and the set, complete, is neatly packed in a gold lettered red box. We are authorized to refund the special price—25 cents—if this razor is not SUPERIOR to any other $5.00 razor you ever used. Here's what the razor itself says:

—"Instead of tipping the barber take these tips from me.
—I am the Mark Cross Blade—take me for my face value
—I bear the Mark Cross trade mark, which for sixty-eight years has stood as a guarantee of quality
—I am hollow-ground, hand-honed, hand-stropped, hair-tested.
—I am the scientifically treated, perfectly tempered Mark Cross miracle in steel.
—I am an automatic barber. I change, at once, a novice into an expert
—I alone shave the upper lip with the downward stroke—one of my many face values.
—My backers guarantee me to do the work of any $5.00 razor—to look it—or flop back the quarter you paid for me instantly." Extra blades are 5c each.
